AUTHOR: Michelle Singer

For the first time in 10 years, Tabby Tabby Island is being put on the market. The 66 hectare property in Moreton Bay off Queensland's south-east coast last sold for $615,000. According to Michael Williams of Ray White Surfers Paradise, the island is now registered for agricultural use and has 43 head of cattle. James Dutton of Dutton Direct specialises in luxury items such as islands; according to him, the number of queries for islands has grown in the past 12 months, with five to seven queries per month. There are approximately 4000 privately owned islands worldwide.
